School Board Opposes New Tax Law

Monterey Peninsula Unified School District officials will protest a new state law which would require school districts to pay taxes to other public entities on unused school sites.

Meeting at Seaside High School, trustees charged that the new legislation is "grossly discriminatory" because it singles out schools and does not require other public agencies to pay taxes on unused sites.

The law states that schools will have to pay taxes on elementary school sites not used within five years and on secondary school sites not used in seven years.

Trustee G. Gervaise Davis III pointed out that the legislation could in the long run cost the public money. He explained that school districts often buy sites for future school construction in order to take advantage of current land prices, knowing that by the time a school will be needed prices will have increased.

Davis and Trustee Dr. Robert L. Black joined in directing the protest. Dr. Black suggested that the California School Boards Association might be asked to consider a suit questioning the law's constitutionality.

Superintendent Allan J. Petersdorf said he plans to meet with local legislators to discuss the law. Petersdorf indicated that the district will either try to get the law removed from the books or have it amended so that it amended so that it would cover all public agencies.

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District currently owns over 75 acres in unused sites. The largest is a 55 acre site in Monterey, purchased to eventually house a junior and senior high school complex. Two 10-acre sites are owned adjacent to Deer Flat and in the Hidden Hills area for eventual construction of elementary schools. In addition, the district owns two lots in Marina.

Speaker Is Announced

Veverly Jones, from the Suicide Prevention Center will be the guest speaker at the next meeting for Parents without Partners.

Holidays are near and it is a crucial time for some parents and children. The public is invited to the meeting which will be held at the Adobe Estrada in Monterey at 8 p.m., tomorrow (Friday), Nov. 26.

Thanksgiving Day, 1971: a day to be grateful, gratitude and love just have to go together. It is not possible to be mad and be grateful at the same time. Exactly 350 years ago--this very day in 1621--the Pilgrims observed their first Thanksgiving Day in the colony of Plymouth at the proclamation of Governor Bradford. Those hardy people didn't need a proclamation to be grateful. They were thankful that they had survived and were alive after all of the hardships of establishing a new country. Landing here without any friends nor any means of support other than the wilderness itself, they were met by friendly Indians and I am sure that they were guided in those first few months by those Indians. That is why the first Thanksgiving had as its honored guests those Indians from those friendly tribes.

I think that if each of us was to examine his conscience very closely he could find a lot to be grateful for on this Thanksgiving. I know that in my own case I am probably as happy and joyful at this Thanksgiving Day as I have ever been. The POST is going along beautifully. It's paying its own way at last and is increasing its advertising and circulation regularly. The future of the newspaper is assured, so I am happy in my work.

I had felt here recently that I would have to give up the paper because of my health but by some miracle I have been made completely whole again and I can continue with the newspaper or

United Fund Campaign Going Well

The United Fund campaign has passed the $100,000 mark of a projected $230,000 goal, it was announced recently by Robert L. Meester of Monterey, chairman of the drive.

"This puts us just ahead of our drive at a similar point last year, but, of course, our goal is higher this year so we'll have to work real hard in the remaining weeks," Meester said.

The Fund raised $180,000 last year for the 15 local services it supports. This year's drive ends on November 30.

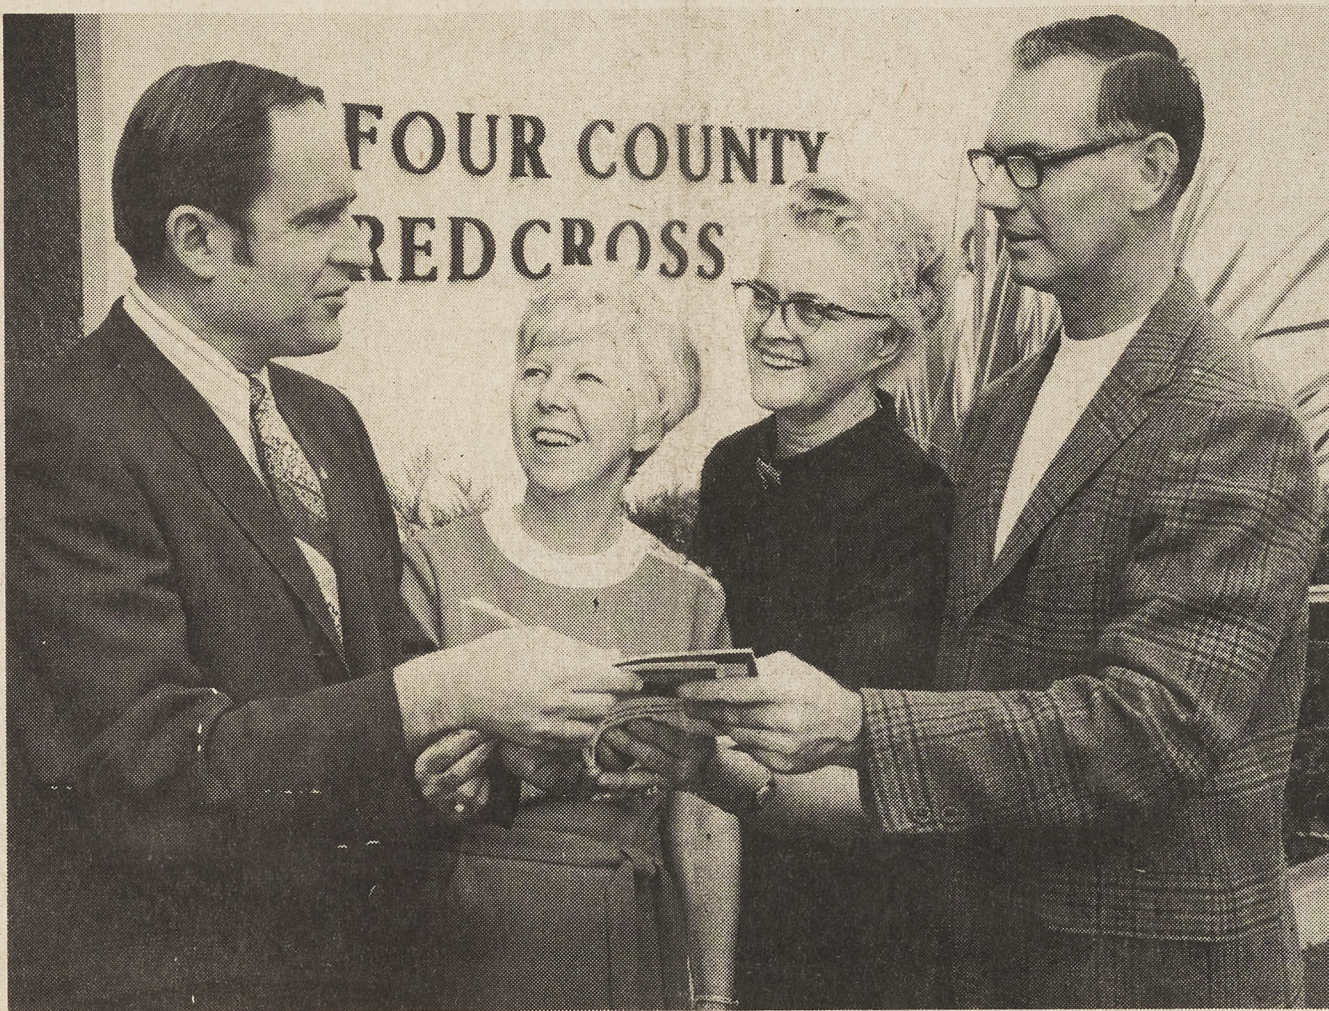

Meester said that it was gratifying that so many poor and elderly people annually respond to the drive and he cited a letter he received this year from an 88-year-old widow:

"I am 88 years old and live on Old Age Pension, so I cannot give as much as I would like to give," she wrote.

"However, what I send I know will help some one. It is the best that I can do." Her name was Ruth Estis of Monterey and she sent $2, for which Meester was extremely grateful.

"It makes the hard campaign work all worthwhile," he pointed out.

Red Cross Policy Is Explained

The American Red Cross Four County Blood Bank's new policy regarding cryoprecipitate, a blood component vital to hemophiliacs, is a temporary policy being carried out as a feasibility study.

This statement came from S. Capps Hoshour, director of the Four County Blood Bank, to clarify misunderstanding in the Monterey County area concerning the aims of the new program.

The new policy, which specifies that donors giving their blood to a specific hemophiliac must come directly to the blood center in San Jose, is a trial program that will help determine a solution equitable to all hemophiliacs in the area, Hoshour said.

Controversy over the policy began in Monterey recently. Dr. Jack Leach, a political science professor at Monterey Peninsula College who has two hemophiliac sons, complained that those willing to pledge a pint of blood to his sons should not be forced to drive to San Jose.

Cryoprecipitate, however, a vital clotting agent needed by hemophiliacs in large quantities, must be processed within three hours after being drawn. Equipment for the processing is available only at the San Jose Center.

"Because of this three-hour processing deadline," Hoshour said, "we are trying the new policy which necessitates that donors earmarking their donation for a specific hemophiliac must come to the Blood Center in San Jose. Under the previous policy we had allowed donors to pledge their blood

Mr. Hoshour said the Red Cross seeks to give all hemophiliacs in the Four County area the same opportunities to get cryoprecipitate at no charge.

"The new program, although it has flaws, is a start in helping us accomplish this end," he said.

The results will be reviewed in December at the Annual Meeting of Blood Center Administrators in Washington, D. C.

Business Activity Increases

Northern Coastal California business activity inched upward during October, after plummeting in September. However, it still trailed below August's record level, Security Pacific National Bank reported recently.

Executive Vice President Carl K. Schieck, administrator of Security Pacific's Northern California Headquarters, indicated that the bank's regional business index was estimated at 132.3 (1967-100), registering a 1.2 percent increase from the September reading.

"Seasonally adjusted components of the business index evidenced mixed trends on a month-to-month comparison," he said. "Declines were recorded in bank deposits and real estate sales, while department store sales, employment and building permit activity posted gains during the month."

Schieck noted that increases in building activity reflected several large commercial permits issued in San Francisco as a hedge against a possible high rise building ban. However, voters rejected the building height limit at the November 2 election.

Employment continued to rise during October, with the dock strike temporarily ended and seasonally adjusted total employment in this 16-county region rose to 2,170,700 from September's revised level of 2,165,400.

"October's employment level ranked above the year-ago point for the first time in six months," Schieck added.

On the unemployment front, Northern Coastal California's labor force declined in October. This rate--equalling the year ago level--compares with state and national employment of 7.0 and 5.8 percent, respectively.

Monthly Summaries of Business Conditions, as well as the bank's Building Activity Report and regional studies, are available through Security Pacific's 435 domestic branches and locations abroad in the United Kingdom, continental Europe, Asia, Latin America and Australia.

Schools Seek Grant For Media Center

Monterey Peninsula Unified School District trustees recently authorized an application for about $71,000 in federal funds to establish a media center at King Junior High School.

The funds will be sought under Title II, Phase 2 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. Title II provides money for library resources, textbooks and other instructional materials. If the application is granted, the district would be committed to spend about $6,300 in local money to purchase equipment required for the proposed media center.

The King project is designed to provide alternatives for students having difficulty in achieving success at school and to provide a variety of materials to as many students as may need them.

Available at the center would be books, tapes, films, filmstrips, recordings, microfilm and other aids. Similar centers now exist at Monterey High School and at Highland Elementary School.

Disappoints Grunsky

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky expressed extreme disappointment when AB 1471 the last remaining coastline preservation bill before the Legislature, was killed in the Senate Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee.

Senator Grunsky said, "California will suffer irreversible damage to the conservation and orderly development of our coastline without this legislation. I pledge to continue working for coastline protection with the introduction of a similar bill when the Legislature reconvenes in January."

Senator Grunsky, whose district includes Monterey Bay, was principal author of one of the coastline preservation bills which also died in the same Senate Committee that killed AB 1471.

In an effort to go coastline protection legislation, Grun-

Potluck At Fairgrounds

The second annual Community Thanksgiving Dinner will be held at the Monterey County Fairgrounds Exhibition Hall Thursday November 25, 1 p.m.

The Thanksgiving "Potluck" dinner is open to the public, with buffet being set out and food provided by all who want to share casseroles.

People attending the "Potluck" are asked to bring their own silverware.

There will be no speeches or other organized activity, but opportunities to do things will be unlimited. There will be baltagues on the lawn, singing circles, crayons, books for children and general conversation among friends.

Mrs. Nancy Wirtz says, "we welcome all manner of assistance in preparing for thanksgiving decoration, food donations, paper plates, napkins. Any contributions to defray the cost of renting the hall will also be welcomed," she said.

Last year's celebration was initiated to express the spirit of thanksgiving, with about 400 people, families, servicemen, retirees and other Peninsula residents being brought food. The spirit of sharing was high then, and most at the first annual "Potluck" had a "happy time," said Mrs. Wirtz.

If information is needed contact Mrs. Wirtz, chairman of the Community Thanksgiving Dinner at 624-8115.

Gividen Resigns

The resignation of Trustee George M. Gividen was accepted by fellow Monterey Peninsula Unified School District Board members on November 15.

Gividen, a Board member since 1969, explained he has accepted a new job and will be moving to Texas. His resignation becomes effective November 22.

The Board passed a resolution setting March 14, 1972 as the day for a special election to fill the remainder of Gividen's four year term. Recent legislation requires that Board vacancies be filled by special election, doing away with the old method under which remaining Board members could simply make appointments in the case of vacancies.

Gividen was one of five Board members representing Trustee Area 2, which includes Monterey and Seaside. The community of Marina makes up Trustee Area 1, with two seats on the Board. Gividen told the Board he is sorry to leave the Monterey area. But he described his new job, in the office of Army Chief of Research and Development, as "considerable opportunity."

Fellow trustees awarded him a plaque honoring his service to the school district.

Christmas Programs Planned by Museum

A champagne Gala, a coffee in "The Enchanted Forest," a Children's Day and a Wassail party are social events that will accompany the Festival of the Trees and the Christmas Creations show at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, December 2 through 5.

The Gala on December 2, for members of the museum association, unveils the creations of a group of women whose fingers have constructed several thousand glittering decorations for the trees. They have been meeting weekly under the direction of Mrs. George Dietterle, with Mrs. John Robertson and Miss Marian Admas as coordinators, since last spring.

From fine aluminum cans plastic vegetable baskets, string, yarn, beads and old jewelry, they have "re-cycled" the material into sparkling ornaments which will decorate trees that have been commissioned by various business and professional firms in the area.

"Tiffany" shades from plastic champagne glasses for a Victorian hotel, "bells and bears" in business suits for an investment house; circus figures for a children's shop; outrigger canoes and grass shacks for a restaurant; Indian motifs; butterflies; birds and flowers from styrofoam egg cartons are only some of the clever themes that have been concocted by the Christmas workshop crew.

Meeting weekly with Mesdames Dietterle, Robertson and Adams have been Misses Sophie Harps and Flo Smith; Mesdames Edwin T. Layton, Don Searle, Harold F. Pullon, Lynn Davis, John Van Salta, R. Emery Wanless, Dennis Tedford, Walter Hibbs, Mark Ehrtter, Irmgard Carl, Milton

Farrell, Saul Weingarten, Clifford Nakajima, John McCort, John Heidenrich, Sudabeh Hoffman, John Nyere, Francis Naughton and Tom Wieder.

After the week-end preview for museum members and the public, the trees, which were "sold" by Mrs. William Oberholtzer and Mrs. Nelson Nowell, will be delivered for the holiday season to the places of business for which they been individually designed and created.

Mrs. John Nail is hostess chairman for the Gala, with Mrs. R. S. Pratt in charge of invitations and Mrs. Monte Harrington, arrangements. Mrs. Max Picard has served as finance chairman for the workshop and festival.

In addition to viewing the trees, museum members and the general public will also be able to buy holiday decorations created by workshop members, the MPMA having sponsored Christmas Creations for the past 11 years. These will include small trees, swags, door pieces, tags, paper and place cards.

There also will be a Fancy Food section, being planned and arranged by Polly Buzza Lawton and Mrs. William Fisher, containing specially decorated jars of extra special foods for gifts. Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Lawton are taking time out from their book on "epicurean sources" for gourmet cooks and Mrs. Lawton also from her interior decorating of a private railroad car.

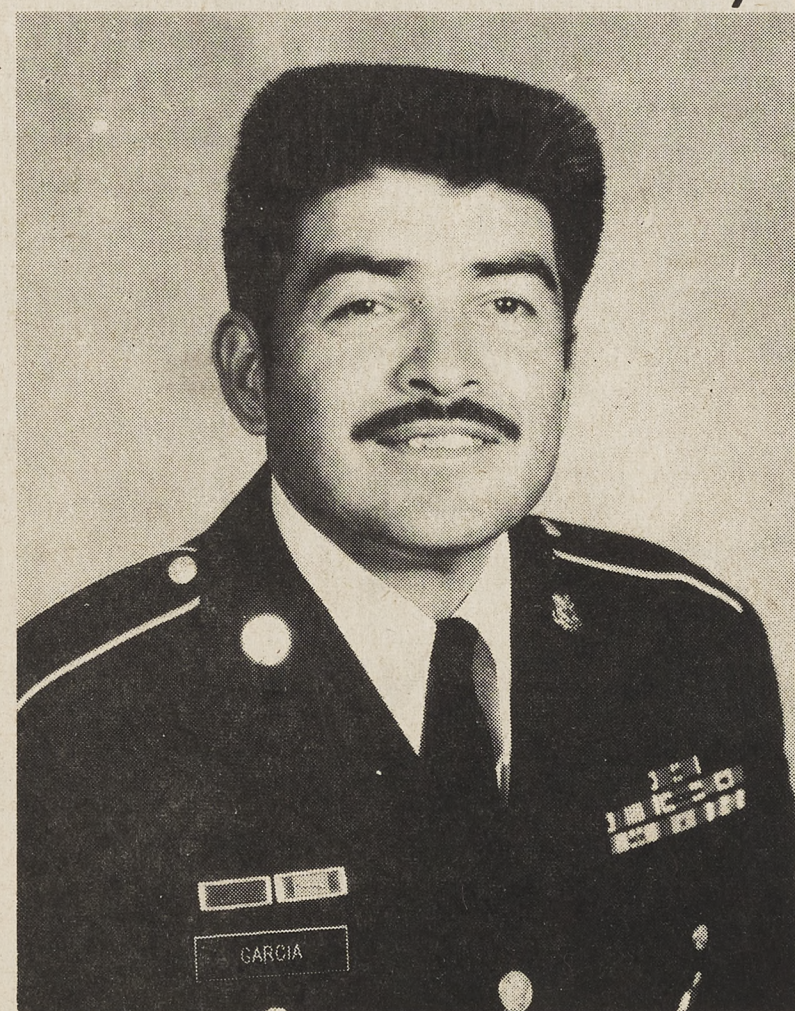

Friday, from 10 o'clock to 4:30 p.m., coffee will be served in the main gallery, "The Enchanted Forest"--for all homemakers on the Peninsula. Members of the association will be assisted in hosting by Staff Wives of the Defense Language Institute, headed by Mrs. Harold Manson and the Women's Architectural League of which Mrs. William L. Cranston is president.

A continuous Puppet Show, staged and directed by Mrs. Peter Gardner, will highlight Children's Day on Saturday, December 4 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Every little visitor will be given pennies to present to the Organ Grinder's monkey who will be in the pavilion from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Carolling by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Singers, composed of students from various high schools, will be heard during the Wassail party on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. Assisting Mrs. L. E. Churchill of the museum hostess committee will be members of the Navy Wives club, headed by Mrs. Charles Bassett.

Assisting the general committee for the Festival were Mr. Charles Spangenberg and Bill Stone.

Highway Now Open

State Route 101 became a continuous multi-lane highway from Los Angeles to a point 3 miles north of Healdsburg, a distance of 500 miles. Recently, on Friday, November 19, the Division of Highways opened the final 12-mile link of 4-lane divided freeway by-passing the old 2-lane route between San Ardo and San Lucas in southern Monterey County.

Traffic will still have about a mile of detour to drive over at the southerly end of the job but it will be a good high-speed no delay connection.

A ceremony and dedication marking the opening was held midway along the job site, about 5 miles northerly of the Paris Valley Road connection.

Principal speaker at the dedication was Assemblyman Bob Wood of Monterey County the on-site ceremony will be followed by an invitational barbecue in King City sponsored by the contractor, Alex Madonna of San Luis Obispo.

Church Services

Oppression in any form needs to be faced up to and overcome.

This is a theme to be discussed at Christian Science church services this Sunday in a Bible Lesson-Sermon entitled "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

"Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good," one of the Scriptural texts. A spiritual solution to oppression is indicated in these words of Mary Baker Eddy in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." A few immortal sentences, breathing the omnipotence of divine justice, have been potent to break despotic fetters and abolish the whipping-post and slave market; but oppression neither went down in blood, nor did the breath of freedom come from the cannon's mouth. Love is the liberator."

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Monterey 10:30 a.m. All are welcome.

California Division of Forestry Information Officers from throughout California are conducting a four-day workshop in Monterey this week.

These career Division Fire Prevention Officers are specialists in information and education for the Division's public information program. Emery Sloat, Deputy State Forester for the Division's Central Coast District, said that the rather comprehensive four-day workshop agenda will include participation by mem-

anything else I want to do. If a man is happy in his work, as I am, then half of the battle is won. This Thanksgiving Day we will be fixing a turkey here at home for our son and three daughters, who are gathering from all corners of California. My brother and two sisters are all well and are celebrating their own Holiday with their families and friends. My son, his wife and my grandson are having their friends in from Southern California to visit and enjoy Thanksgiving. So you see, all is well in my family. How much more grateful should a man be than to know that his family and loved ones are happy and healthy.

I talk to our advertisers and others in the business community and although a few of them cry about business and conditions in general, most of them are having a better year than last year. Many of them complain of the uncertainty that exists in the country, but if you examine conditions, they aren't as bad as they were last year at this time. The war in Vietnam is being wound down, albeit slowly. But we have to admit that casualties are down to almost nothing each week from around 300 a week at one time. Think of the gratitude of those mothers whose sons are still in the Armed Forces. How grateful they must be with the joy of knowing that there is a better chance that her boy will come home in the not too distant future!

Sure, economic conditions are not so good, but at least we have started on a course of wage and price control, which even if it doesn't work, will at least make big business and big labor slow down the spiral of inflation. A rapprochement is in the offing with Red China through President Nixon's visit to China. Maybe some of you don't agree, but you have to admit that as long as we are talking, we are not fighting. The same is true with Nixon's visit to Moscow. The Arab-Israeli conflict, though not settled, at least has been held at a standstill for the last year and the chances of settlement increase with each day that passes. Arash of environmental laws have been passed and the consciousness of the general public has been raised to where we are all alert to the dangers to our immediate environment. Sure these pollution problems won't be solved this year, but we can be thankful that there are solutions being devised which weren't even thought of on last Thanksgiving Day.

So let each of us look around and regardless of the circumstances which surround us know that there is something to be happy and grateful about. Gratitude is akin to love.

Met In Houston

Black white and Mexican-Americans representing nearly 2.5 million Texas Baptist groups met recently in Houston, Texas. The six groups jointly demonstrated their brotherhood in a gathering billed as a historic first both in the nation and in the state. Each of the six groups had originally scheduled their annual meeting at different times and places all over the state. With less than a year's notice they had changed them so that all could meet in Houston at the same time. The six groups had individual business meetings throughout the week, later joining for a "spiritual spectacular." Over 41,000 attended the night joint meeting in the Astrodome which seats about 50,000.

As I See It

By Mel Vercoe

"Mr. Nixon, now that Mr. Agnew has just been elected to a second term as President, what do you think of the economic outlook for the period from 1980 to 1984?"

"Well, Mr. Cronkite - you

New Vicar Will Be Installed

Reverend Chester L. Talton, the new Buena Streets, will be officially installed next Monday night, November 29, at 7:30 p.m.

Among the many local persons attending will be the Roman Catholic Bishop of Monterey, the Most Rev. Harry Clinch and the Episcopal Bishop of San Jose, the Rt. Rev. Richard Millard. Their presence will honor the first anniversary of the joint venture which the two churches have begun as an ecumenical mission.

Father Talton is joining Reverend Joe Watt of Seaside and Reverend Tod Brown of Monterey, two Roman Catholic priests, in the religious venture.

The public is invited to attend the installation and reception afterwards.

Receives Donations

Monterey Peninsula College recently received a number of gifts and donations from citizens in the community served by the college, including a portable spinet harpsichord and a library of 100 books.

The harpsichord, an immediate precursor of piano, was donated by Mrs. Edith P. Truesdell of Carmel Valley and came complete with tuning kit. It will be used by the music department for recitals and special presentations.

A library of 100 titles, 50 volumes of works on the fine arts and 50 volumes of rare works on landscape design, horticulture, botany and plants was a gift from the estate of Mrs. Henry Potter Russell. The collection will be kept in the creative arts division library.

Other gifts received and acknowledged by the Board of Trustees at their recent meeting included: "The Autobiography of Delfina Cuero (A Diegueno Indian)" donated by Mrs. Rebecca Tosey of the MPC Library of Carmel; "Destiny or Death," a booklet dealing with California history, from Michael McCloskey, the author and a former MPC student.

"Mr. Nixon, the American people never did know the background of how you managed to get organized labor to go along with your wage-price freeze back in 1971. What happened after Mr. Meany said you knew what you could do if you didn't like labor's attitude, and you said, in effect, that you couldn't care less what labor thought?"

"Those were great days, Mr. Hickel."

"Oh, yes, Drat that Hickel, anyway. I can't stand a person who says what he thinks. Well, it was fairly simple. George Meany was so angry he decided to go along with the wage-price freeze just for spite. I think he'll be a much more forceful Sec. of State than Shirley Temple was. Anyway, that assured me of reelection in 1972, or was it 1972 - no, that was when Spiro took it by a landslide. Of course, what really helped was that nobody knew what was going on, or I wouldn't have stood a chance even against poor old Hubert in 1968. Poor old Hubert, I wonder if he is still on welfare."

"One more question, Mr. Nixon. By the way, your sleeve is getting pretty wet in your cereal bowl. How did you manage to wipe out the communist threat in 1975? It happened so suddenly nobody knew about it for several weeks."

"Nothing to it. I had a secret talk with the leaders of China and Russia, and I threatened them."

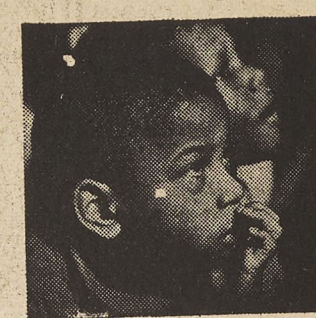

"You mean you threatened nuclear war?"

"Oh, heavens, no. I threatened to make a public statement to the whole world that the United States Treasury was finally empty from fighting communism, and since that was the basic reason for their philosophy - to bust the U.S. Treasury - they simply dropped the whole idea like a hot potato and adopted capitalism. As you know, the Chinese stock market went up over a hundred points when Spiro got reelected last week, and ninety-five percent of the Senators in the Kremlin are hot-rodgers. Oh, boy, did we ever put one over on them that time."

"Thank you, Mr. Nixon. Do you have any particular message for the American people at this time?"

"Yes, Mr. Hickel - I mean Cronkite - tell them I wish them luck. They are going to need it."

New Bridge Is Built

Prior to the Salinas River
floods occurring in December, 1969, Blanco Road between Cooper and Reservation Roads was a narrow roadway with several sharp turns and steep grades. It crossed the Salinas River on a low level bridge with both the roadway and bridge under water during floods. The 1968-1969 floods severely damaged the bridge and completely washed out both approaches.

In order to eliminate flooding and alignment problems, the entire roadway has been relocated for a total project length of 8,665 feet including an 805 foot high level bridge over the River. The roadway consists of two 12 foot lanes with 8 foot shoulders which will ultimately become the southern half of a four lane divided facility.

The Contractor is C. K.
Moseman Construction Company and the Resident Engineer Al Jorge of the State Division of Highways. Contract work began on October 12, 1970 and anticipated completion is in December.

This project is unique in that it is a combination of several funds. The road construction is a normal Federal Aid Secondary Project financed jointly by the County of Monterey, State Division of Highways and Federal Government utilizing the Federal Emergency Relief Storm Damage Funds.

Both road and bridge were designed by Monterey County Road Department personnel.
The inspection has been handled by Al Jorge of the State Division of Highways and his staff. The total cost of the contract is $1,102,000. The road costs are estimated to be $582,300 and the bridge costs $519,000. Right of way, design and inspection costs will add another $251,550 for a total project cost of $1,353, 550.

Use Of Personalized Plates Is Extended

Governor Ronald Reagan has signed a bill enabling California motorists to display personalized license plates on any truck, pickup, trailer or motorcycle.

Until now such plates could be used only with passenger automobiles or motorcycles.

"The legislation is effective immediately," said Director of Motor Vehicles Robert Cozens, "and DMV offices are ready to accept applications for these 'ecology' plates from owners of commercial vehicles and trailers. Proceeds from plate purchases go to ecology-oriented projects.

"Many commercial fleet owners who have wanted to name a product or slogan on their truck license plates can now do so," Cozens stated. "Owners of pickup trucks which require commercial plates have expressed frustration at being excluded from eligibility. They are now able to use this avenue of expression and so are trailer owners."

A $25 fee entitles any motorist to license plates displaying two to six letters or numbers of his choice -- if available and "suitable." He may not duplicate any already existing personalized plates or other plate series in use. The plates stay with the owner as long as he pays a special $10 annual renewal fee -- in addition to other regular fees.

For $12 the plates may be transferred from one vehicle to another.

If plates ordered now are picked up after January 1, 1972, the $10 renewal fee will not fall due until 1973.

MONEYMAKER

Personal license plate sales began in California in August of 1970.

Nearly $700,000 in net revenues have been produced from the sale of some 40,000 plates. This money is earmarked for a number of environmental projects including: air pollution control, agricultural burning studies, conservation education programs, power plant siting investigations and studies of noise pollution at airports.

As more personal license plate money comes in, appropriations can be made to several additional projects which are awaiting funding. Applications are available at any DMV or automobile club office.

Refusers of 'Coral Sea' Duty Termed 'Courageous' By Congressman Dellums

In the Gold Ballroom of the Sheraton-Palace Hotel, Congressman Ronald W. Dellums won a standing ovation from the conservative Commonwealth Club of San Francisco last Friday noon, with a speech that reiterated his basic beliefs in humanitarian solutions to world problems.

In answering his questions after his talk, Congressman Dellums said he felt that sailors refusing to sail from Alameda to Vietnam with the U.S.S. Coral Sea were not "cowards" -- as the questioner had termed them -- but rather were "courageous" to "stand up and strike out against the evil."

Asked if violence was ever warranted for "a good cause," Congressman Dellums replied that he did not believe violence to be "a viable alternative."

He said he had never purchased war toys for his children. He had learned in his youth in West Oakland that violence meant "only that I could hurt someone or that someone could hurt me."

He was referring to the council's recent actions in support of those sailors from the Coral Sea unwilling to participate in further military action.

On November 2, the council had refused to declare Berkeley City Hall a sanctuary for the sailors, passing instead a watered-down resolution urging citizen support of the men.

But a week later, it was a different story. In the interim, the University Lutheran Chapel of Berkeley, supported by ten bay area churches, announced its availability as a place of sanctuary for "any person who is unwilling to participate in military action."

On November 9, the council passed a series of meaningful additions to the earlier resolution. They expressed city support for men who decide to take sanctuary. They expressed city support for the sanctuary already established and for "any congregation in Berkeley which engages in sanctuary."

Dellums spoke of the inequities of American life, using as an example his privileges as a Congressman.

"I would be labeled a radical extremist if I demanded that these same privileges be extended to all people, regardless of their class, color or education."

The free medical care which Congressmen receive is as much an example of "creeping socialism" as is welfare to the poor, he pointed out.

"When a poor person asks for welfare, he must liquidate most of his remaining resources but when Lockheed got a guaranteed loan from the government they weren't asked to liquidate a thing," Congressman Dellums said.

"So welfare can't be the question, since we give it out all the time -- it just depends on who gets it."

He evoked the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King when he said, in conclusion, that he considered his most vital responsibility as an elected representative to be the bringing about of unity among people.

OTHER QUESTIONS
Congressman Dellums readily answered questions on "what purpose" the Black Panthers serve and on whether the present Berkeley City Council is "better or worse" than the council on which he served prior to his election to Congress last year.

Some 6,000 Seven-day Adventist ministers and evangelists will engage in a program of all-out evangelism next year in a simultaneous thrust across the United States and Canada.

Called Mission 72, the evangelistic thrust will move into high gear with public meetings opening on March 4 in every part of North America. The same vigorous program of witnessing will take place in Australia and Inter-America, the church's world headquarters.

Mission 72 kits have already gone out to pastors in North America, and church members are gearing up to participate

The council is "better," Dellums replied, because it represents the belief of the young that electoral politics can work.

The Panthers, he continued, serve the purpose of "raising issues that need to be raised."

He said the Panthers had been used as "scapegoats" by people who were not examining the issues raised by the Panthers merely condemning them for bringing those issues to public attention.

Asked if violence was ever warranted for "a good cause," Congressman Dellums replied that he did not believe violence to be "a viable alternative."

He said he had never purchased war toys for his children. He had learned in his youth in West Oakland that violence meant "only that I could hurt someone or that someone could hurt me."
